Editorial Review

About the Author

Simon Richmond's first gig for Lonely Planet was on the Kazakhstan chapter of their Central Asia guide. Having recently completed two books on adventure travel in Southeast Asia and South America, where he had, among other things, learnt to dive, hacked his way through dense jungles, paddled furiously along rapid rivers, climbed snow-covered, smoldering volcanoes and mountain-biked down perilously steep tracks, the British-born writer and photographer felt prepared to tackle a country more of interest to mountaineers and oil prospectors than your average backpacker or package tourist. A decade and a half earlier, Simon had honed his writing skills as a young journalist with 'Which?' before heading east to Tokyo with the vague idea that this hyper-kinetic city would be more inspiring than life insurance, tax thresholds, Euro MPs, and health food, all topics he'd researched for the UK consumer advice magazine. He spent two and a half years in Japan learning the language and working as an editor and writer for a major financial news organization on content that was drier than the Gobi, and only marginally more interesting. At the same time he travelled Japan (later co-writing an award-winning guidebook to the country, as well as to Tokyo) and Asia, scribbling notes and storing away ideas for travel features. He first came to live in Sydney in 1994 on a year-long working holiday visa and quickly found the local media snapping up those stories. Entranced by the country he moved back permanently in 1998 and joined Lonely Planet's merry band of authors a year later. Among the many titles he has since worked on his favourites include Russia & Belarus, Trans-Siberian Railway, Cape Town and the first - and only - edition of Istanbul to Kathmandu. His travel features have been published in newspapers and magazines around the world, including in the UK's Independent, Guardian, Times, Daily Telegraph and Royal Geographical Society Magazine; and Australia's Sydney Morning Herald, The Australian, Australian Financial Review Magazine and Vogue Entertaining + Travel. He's presented a travel documentary on Japan for BBC's Radio 4 and his blogs on St Petersburg and traveling the Trans-Mongolian route through Russia, China and Mongolia can be read here. Sydney, his adopted home, is his favourite place. His travel tip is one he seldom follows himself: leave at least half of what you've packed at home!

From reader reviews:

Shiela Steen:

What do you ponder on book? It is just for students since they are still students or this for all people in the world, the particular best subject for that? Merely you can be answered for that question above. Every person has various personality and hobby for each other. Don't to be forced someone or something that they don't wish do that. You must know how great as well as important the book Lonely Planet Korea (Travel Guide). All type of book can you see on many sources. You can look for the internet options or other social media.

Cindy Gross:

Information is provisions for anyone to get better life, information currently can get by anyone on everywhere. The information can be a expertise or any news even a concern. What people must be consider while those information which is from the former life are hard to be find than now is taking seriously which one is appropriate to believe or which one the particular resource are convinced. If you receive the unstable resource then you have it as your main information there will be huge disadvantage for you. All of those possibilities will not happen with you if you take Lonely Planet Korea (Travel Guide) as the daily resource information.

Vicky Bowman:

Spent a free time to be fun activity to complete! A lot of people spent their free time with their family, or their friends. Usually they doing activity like watching television, gonna beach, or picnic within the park. They actually doing ditto every week. Do you feel it? Would you like to something different to fill your own personal free time/ holiday? Could possibly be reading a book could be option to fill your cost-free time/ holiday. The first thing that you will ask may be what kinds of book that you should read. If you want to try out look for book, may be the e-book untitled Lonely Planet Korea (Travel Guide) can be fine book to read. May be it is usually best activity to you.

Sandra Leggett:

That book can make you to feel relax. This specific book Lonely Planet Korea (Travel Guide) was vibrant and of course has pictures on the website. As we know that book Lonely Planet Korea (Travel Guide) has many kinds or type. Start from kids until teens. For example Naruto or Investigation company Conan you can read and believe you are the character on there. Therefore not at all of book usually are make you bored, any it can make you feel happy, fun and unwind. Try to choose the best book for yourself and try to like reading this.
