A Married Man By Catherine Alliott

Another hilarious treat from bestselling novelist Catherine Alliott. When Lucy Fellowes is offered a dream house in the country she leaps at it. It's hard enough living in London on an uncertain income, but when you're widowed with two small boys it's even harder. And anyway, a rural retreat will bring her closer to Charlie. Charlie? The only man in four years to make her heart beat faster. Perfect. Or it would be. If only he didn't belong to someone else...A wickedly witty new novel about how complicated relationships get when you grow up, from the bestselling author of ROSIE MEADOWS REGRETS...and OLIVIA'S LUCK.

Take a recently widowed young woman, her two rambunctious sons, and a clan of aristocratic in-laws; add a luxurious country home, a handsome TV screenwriter, and a reemerging interest in the opposite sex, and you have the makings of either a romantic affair or a ruinous assignation. Although Lucy Fellowes tries to adjust following the death of her husband, she finds that life on her own is no picnic. The in-laws are meddlesome; the home is far from hip, happenin' London; and the gorgeous writer happens to be married. While valiantly attempting to maintain some independence in the face of her in-laws' manipulative domination, Lucy also struggles with the moral dilemma of a forbidden attraction versus her overwhelming loneliness. Making her U.S. debut, bestselling British author Alliott humorously, yet heartwarmingly, depicts a Bridget Jonesian heroine doing her best to fit in with a privileged nobility who would be more comfortable at Fawlty Towers than Buckingham Palace. American fans of British fiction will delight in the discovery of an engaging new author. Carol Haggas

Review

“This novel is at once smart and witty, and the characters are so delightfully vivid and eccentric that you want to invite them to tea to cheer up a boring afternoon.”

Author of Dog Handling

“POSSIBLY MY FAVORITE WRITER.”

—MARIAN KEYES

“AN ADDICTIVE COCKTAIL OF WIT, FRIVOLITY, AND MADCAP ROMANCE.”

From the Inside Flap

Widowed four years ago, London antiques dealer Lucy Fellowes was plunged into single motherhood with two growing boys. Since then, she's had little time—or inclination—to think straight, much less fall in love again.

Now, she's been offered an incredible dream house in the country. Of course, accepting means having to cope with her domineering mother-in-law, her husband's wacky family, and all their assorted scandals. But suddenly, none of it matters. Because she's met HIM. His name is Charles; he's a famous television writer, gorgeous, witty, charming, and very, very attracted to her. And, he's married. Well, a woman can't have everything. Or can she?

In this delightfully sexy, amusing romp through mishap and desire, Catherine Alliott hits the shores of America with a romantic comedy of manners and unexpected passion—in which her plucky heroine discovers that despite her best intentions, love has a plan all its own!
